

"Godzone", a New Zealand national flag design (suggested derivative flags and ensigns are also depicted)

Suggested flags for the Ross Dependency and for the South Island are based on previous designs by vexillologist James Dignan

Naval ships ensign

Air Force ensign

Civil ships ensign

Civil aviation ensign

Police Service ensign

Fire Service ensign

Customs Service ensign

Yacht Squadron ensign

RSA ensign

Niue flag

Cook Islands flag

Tokelau flag

Ross Dependency flag

Army ensign

Government ensign

UN ensign

Chatham Islands flag

Stewart Island flag

Otago flag

South Island flag

Situated roughly halfway between the Equator and the South Pole, the latitudinal band occupied by New Zealand is the ideal, four-season zone for God's own country. Silver fern fronds leave no doubt as to which country occupies the zone, and it is very nearly possible to discern sixteen of them, the number of official regions in New Zealand proper. The rays of the sun most definitely number sixteen, as do the red-and-blue stripes of the fly, on which the traditional New Zealand Southern Cross appears. From the silver ferns in its canton to the stripes and Cross in its fly, this flag design will be easily identifiable as that of New Zealand.