

“New Zild variant 2”, an alternative New Zealand national flag design
(with suggested adaptations of the design to the other major flags and ensigns of the nation)

Army

Navy ships

Air Force

RSA

Government ships

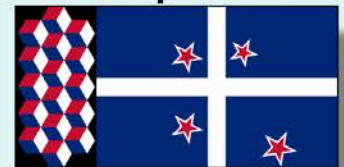

Civil & merchant ships

Civil aviation

Yacht Squadron

Police Service

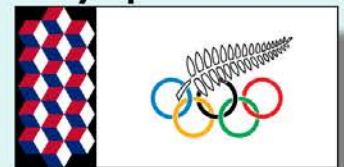

Fire & Emergency

Customs Service

NZ Olympic Committee

Tokelau

Niue

Cook Islands

Ross Dependency

Auckland

Wellington

Christchurch

United Nations

See this flag waving. See it in all wind conditions. See many more alternative New Zealand flag designs at newzealand.flagoptions.com

Inspired by the original 'New Zild' flag design, this variant sports sixteen red-white-and-blue, Escheresque blocks, which have been arranged vertically at its hoist. The blocks numerically symbolise all of the official regions of New Zealand, and together with their black field they occupy one-quarter of the length of the flag. For the national flag, the remaining three-quarters of the flag also has a black field, upon which a white-starred version of the New Zealand-style Southern Cross appears, whilst for the remaining flags and ensigns of the nation, this large area readily accommodates other field colours and symbols as required, as has been illustrated above. This visually striking flag design will be easily recognised from any distance and in any wind, and always with the full complement of New Zealand national colours showing at its hoist.